DRIVING ALL TO STOP DOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Resolutions adopted by the Presbytery of the Methodist Episcopal Church, representing eighty churches and congregations around the bay, were read yesterday to Governor Gilest, Attorney General Webb, Sheriff Barnett of Alameda County and District Attorney Donahoe.

The resolutions are aimed at the "colored" members of the church. Jeffries Johnson at Emeryville is charged with the heavyweight championship of the world. He is a "colored" man, and in the contest, but a brutal and unscrupulous fight between a negro and white man, was discerned to this national anniversary.

In the preamble of the resolutions, the death of Thomas McCarthy last year, at the time of Jeffries and Johnson, is mentioned. It is stated that the "colored" members of the church will be brought into unfavorable light by the many undesirable persons who are brought into the community if the same is permitted.

OAKLAND TO OPPOSE BIG TITLE MATCH

OAKLAND, Cal., May 5.—The decision of Tommy McCarthy as a result of the fight with Owen Moran at San Francisco had the effect of arousing the fight interests of this city, in consequence of a mass meeting of the citizens of O. will be called this week to voice public sentiment against the Jeffries-Johnson championship contest.

HARD HITTERS BOX IN RING AT AMERICAN A. C.

Tonight comes the middleweight contest between Tim Sullivan of Newburyport and Henry Hall, the well-known colored scrapper of this city.

The bout takes place at the American A. C., and considerable interest has been worked up over the go.

The man who captures the long end of the verdict in to-night's battle, should have no trouble in getting attention from match makers in the East in the near future.

Sullivan is reported to be in the best shape of his career for to-night's go, which is something unusual for him.

PARENTS STILL HAVE LONG JOURNEY AHEAD OF THEM BEFORE BECOMING IDEAL

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

If you want to realize how humanity has progressed read history.

Go back to the time of Herod and Cleopatra. They were two mighty rulers and their children were educated in the best of ways.

There is no emperor, king, queen or president living to-day who occupies a more exalted position before the civilized world than Herod and Cleopatra occupied in their day.

Cleopatra led an army against one of her sons and was his captor.

Herod kept one of his sons in prison for months, and when dying he gave the order for his death, fearing the youth might escape.

Would They Change? Or If They Could?

By DOROTHY DIX

The sum of all men's strictures against women practically falls under three heads:

(a) Gossip.

(b) Lack of dress.

(c) Inconstancy.

Since the very beginning of time men have criticized women for talking too much, for dressing too badly, and for being too inconstant.

They are already inconstant, but do you really want to reform women of these faults? Would they be changed if they could? Take the matter of gossip, for instance.

A simply shocking habit. It is dreadful to think of the light-hearted and irresponsible way in which women talk about their neighbors, and repeat every bit of scandal that they hear.

It is no wonder that men who republish women for every action form to a woman who is a man like to be married to a woman who never goes? Fancy a single man, if they would. But they are not the men of the neighborhood, who had just succeeded in relating concerning her friend, who never knew why the woman sold their automobile, or the details of the

loves engagement between Miss Southern and Mr. Brown, and who couldn't tell any of the particulars of the separation of the princesses why Mrs. Z took the children and went home to her mother, and Mr. P.

took bachelor lodgings.

No doubt, as men always say, it shocks

them to hear women gossip, and yet every man will testify that he has himself some times up to the little stream of facts that he pours out for his delectation at the dinner table and asks for more. Therefore, the question is, would he really, now, prefer to have her discuss them and the approval or to be the unattractive scandal monger that she is?

Women talk too much, anyway. Men say they do, and nobody can deny it,

but would any man like to live in the house with a silent woman? I know not,

for a woman's value, even when it is in building things and worth listening to,

is a cheerful thing in a home. In reality the average man likes a chatterbox. He is too lazy to make conversation him-

out for a wife a woman whose tongue is built on the perpetual motion plan, then he amuses himself by talking her for talking too much. But he calls her dumb and grouchy when she is silent, and wants to know what she is the matter with her.

Women Dress for Men

As for woman's love of dress, man criticizes it and fosters it. He prescribes restraint in it, he says that it is immoral, and when he is in a hurry he holds up hands of horror at the idea of a creature with a brain and immortal soul who thought and aspirations never rise higher than a fashion platform and that she goes out and works to death to buy her gewgaws.

It is literally true that men could cure women of their extravagance in dress, and of the undue value they place upon it, in a single day, if they would. But they are not the men of the neighborhood, who had just succeeded in relating concerning her friend, who never knew why the woman

sold their automobile, or the details of the

loves engagement between Miss Southern

and Mr. Brown, and who couldn't tell any of the particulars of the separation of the princesses why Mrs. Z took the children and went home to her mother, and Mr. P.

took bachelor lodgings.

No doubt, as men always say, it shocks

them to hear women gossip, and yet every

man will testify that he has himself some

times up to the little stream of facts that

he pours out for his delectation at the dinner

table and asks for more. Therefore, the question is, would he really, now, prefer to

to be the unattractive scandal monger that she is?

Women talk too much, anyway. Men

say they do, and nobody can deny it,

but would any man like to live in the house with a silent woman? I know not,

for a woman's value, even when it is

in building things and worth listening to,

is a cheerful thing in a home. In reality

the average man likes a chatterbox. He is too lazy to make conversation him-

out for a wife a woman whose tongue is

built on the perpetual motion plan, then

he amuses himself by talking her for

talking too much. But he calls her dumb

and grouchy when she is silent, and wants to know what she is the matter with her.

and grouchy when she is silent, and wants

to know what she is the matter with her.

The sum of man's objections falls under the three heads of gossip, love of dress and inconstancy.

In the whole masculine vocabulary, so much has been said every married woman who husband never says her so well as when she is making a fool of herself, and that she can get more of him by weeping on the second table of his waistcoat than she could pry out of him by all the terrific arguments in the world.

The truth of the matter is that while men are supposed to have even almost human intelligence, they are not the renewal why women don't reform.

Quiet strength is the market's characteristic and the street is full of speculators looking for a moderate reaction in order to buy.

Whether the market has truly turned it is impossible at this time to say, because there is a lack of enthusiasm in quarters where co-operation will be necessary to sustain the advance.

Past experience does not make the sales of bonds abroad a matter of conjecture. The money is obtained at a price that reflects reflection on the bond bond market in London and Amsterdam.

In Paris, for instance, an extra commission is paid on the bonds sold, and in addition to the regular banking charges to insure the success of a flotation.

The trouble with the $3,000,000 ever, has not been the price of steel, and money, at rates for freight and the political and exchange situation, is a disturbing factor. The sale of bonds will not correct that situation, and therefore nothing more than a good crop of foreign bonds will result of the foreign bond sales. It will make other developments to sustain the advance.

George F. Haer, president of the Round-stands committee, is making the Round-stands committee committed to an increase in freight rates as a result of the war. The freight rates for the increased cost of railroad freight, the increased cost of wages, higher cost of material, and the general advance in the cost of everything except a railroad, is the operating expenses of a railroad.

If railroads obtain enough money to resume purchasing the steel they will be able to give the steel companies another boom and may revive business to some extent as to make investors forget Washington.

To date, outside loyalty has been struggling against the loyalty of the money.

hundreds. Nine-tenths of the holders of State bonds are profitless. Nonprofit holders have the same fate. In the last year, 1932, 1933, and 1934, several pools have realized in the last few months of the year a profit of 100 per cent, followed by the persons who own outright moderate amounts.

Crop year is reassuring. There is nothing really wrong anywhere. The railroad situation is a Wallingford will simply improve. The situation in the oil business is not so good according to the kind of year that is ahead. The oil business is not so good according to the kind of year that is ahead. The oil business is not so good according to the kind of year that is ahead.

An increase in talk of for the Colorado & Southern. The stock acts well. Its earnings are expected to be equal to the regular Denver & Rio Grande also acts well, but with sympathy with Colorado & Southern. The stock of the latter has an official connection soon. $ $ $

A dispatch from Butte says: An authoritative statement is made that the Montana Copper Co. is not for normal capacity, and all attempts for curtailing have been abandoned. $ $ $

An official announcement has been made that the Butte Balkanika will pay $100,000 in dividends for the summer. The company is now outfitting 200 tons of ore daily, including an average of 10 per cent copper. $ $ $

The Fargo & Northwestern Railroad Company's grain bulletins which say that although grain has been scarce and retained, the grain has increased in quantity and value since the South Dakota along the company's lines.
